

Elections Today, Tomorrow — VOTE!

CAROL ANN RIZZO

ED HOMER

JIM CLARK

NAJIB HAMDAN

LEE HODGE

VIC DOLIENTE

Students will go to the polls today and tomorrow to elect Associated Student Body officers for the 1962-63 academic year. Positions to be decided upon by student electors include ASB President, Vice President and Secretary.

Polls will be located at the ASB office, the Cafeteria patio and the Erhart Agriculture building. Students will be required to show an ASB card before voting. Voting booths will be open from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. today and will close at noon tomorrow.

Competition was keen toward the end of last week as candidates tried to outwit each other in obtaining the votes of still-undecided students.

Every conceivable spot on campus has been used for the posting of campaign material—even sidewalks and steps. Candidates were reminded today that all posters must be taken down by 5 p.m. tomorrow according to election rules.

Running for ASB President are Vic Doliente, Najib Hamdan and Lee Hodge, while Jim Clark and Edmund Homer, Jr. are in the race for Vice President. Carol Ann Rizzo is unopposed for Secretary.

Reorganization of Student Affairs Council, definite action to obtain the long-sought College Union building, a full-time foreign student advisor, a break between Winter and Spring quarters, coed participation in ASB activities and the re-establishment of the ASB officers' column in El Mustang are some of the more important planks in the platforms of this year's candidates for office.

Candidates participated in a "Meet The Press" type of conference with student journalists Friday in the Snack Bar during which questions were put to them regarding their platforms and views. The conference was deemed generally successful by those involved, although a faulty public address system made it hard for some of the participants to be heard.

The Presidential Candidates

VIC DOLIENTE is a Junior majoring in Farm Management from Holtville. He plans to encourage student interest in Student Affairs Council and an attempt to get definite action on the long-proposed College Union Building. Currently, Doliente is Junior Class Representative to the Student Affairs Council.

NAJIB HAMDAN, the first foreign student in Cal Poly history to run for ASB President, is a Fruit Production Junior from Beirut, Lebanon. He would like to see a full-time foreign student advisor here. He would also like to see the Finance Committee chairman become the most powerful ASB office on campus. Hamdan has been active in various clubs and organizations throughout his college career.

LEE HODGE, a Junior Dairy major from National City, wants a "more flexible" student government with more participation for all students. His platform includes an Inter-Divisional Council to coordinate the activities of the divisional councils. He also wants to see more coed participation in ASB activities. Currently, Hodge is on the Poly Royal Executive Board and a member of Finance Committee.

The Vice Presidential Candidates

JIM CLARK is a business major from Visalia and currently Chairman of the Music Board of Control. He would like to see Student Affairs Council become more of a policy-making group, with more power given to its sub-committees. He also believes that students should be given "more power to run their own affairs."

EDMUND HOMER, JR. is an Aeronautical Engineering Sophomore from Mountain View. His platform includes a break between Winter and Spring quarters, and better cooperation between the Associated Student Body and the administration.

Secretarial Candidate

CAROL ANN RIZZO is a senior English major from Fresno and is unopposed in her bid to become ASB Secretary. She wants something definite done about the lack of representation on Student Affairs Council, and she also wants to revive the ASB officers' column in El Mustang. Miss Rizzo will be a graduate student next year.

Results of the ASB elections will be announced Wednesday evening by Dave Hettings, Election Committee chairman.

Peace Corps Accepts Poultry Club President

"This is the most significant thing that has happened to me in my life," said Phil Doub, junior Poultry major from Piedmont, when he was notified Friday by telegram that he was accepted by the Peace Corps.

The telegram, which came from Sergeant Schriver, Jr. in Washington, D.C., informed Doub that he will start training June 11 for a Peace Corps project in Iran.

Doub is currently Poultry Club president, a member of Alpha Zeta, past vice president of the Young Democrats, and a member of the Photo Bureau staff. He has attended Cal Poly since 1959 and has been in the process of applying for the Peace Corps assignment for the last year.

Dana Guevara . . . A Sophomore Elementary Education major from El Monte, was named "Miss San Luis Obispo County" Saturday night at the San Luis Obispo Junior High School Auditorium. The contest was sponsored by the San Luis Obispo Junior Chamber of Commerce. Miss Guevara will participate in the "Miss California" contest this summer.

Set Thursday Meetings To Discuss Changes In Engineering

Recent approval by the administration of significant changes in the curriculums of several Engineering departments will be explained and analyzed at departmental meetings during College Hour Thursday at 11 a.m.

"All Engineering students are urged to attend these meetings to obtain correct information on the curriculum changes and how they will affect their own plans and programs," Clarence Radius, Electronics Engineering Department head said Saturday.

Electronics Engineering students will meet in the Air Conditioning Auditorium and Industrial Engineering students in Science E-28. Literature on the new curriculum changes will be distributed at these meetings.

Checkmate Artists Land for Weekend

Chess champs and amateurs from all over the state will gather on campus for the Fourth Annual California State Interscholastic Chess Tournament Friday and Saturday.

Hosted by Cal Poly's Chess Club for the fourth consecutive year, play will begin at 1 p.m. on Friday with two games then and three on Saturday in a five-round Swiss tourney.

Caisse Chess Club President Dave Sullivan says, "The tournament is open to all college students belonging to the U. S. Chess Federation and the California State Chess Federation. Players may join either federation upon arrival for the tournament."

Poly's Steve Matsner, twice the winner of the State Interscholastic Chess Tournament, will try for his third consecutive win. While a student at Fullerton J. C., he copped both championships in 1960-61. Representing Cal Poly, Matsner also tied for fourth place in (Continued on page 4)

Announcement

The following is an announcement issued by Dr. Dale W. Andrews, Dean of the College, yesterday afternoon:

"The students, faculty, staff and administration of Cal Poly have been greatly embarrassed by a few students who were rude and disrespectful to Governor Edmund G. Brown last Tuesday and the publicity has resulted from their actions.

"President McPhee has received a letter of criticism from the city of San Luis Obispo and other complaints from throughout the State. One metropolitan newspaper article described the Cal Poly students as '... barefoot, others in sandals, many wearing beards. . . ' I do not believe this to be an accurate description of the typical Cal Poly student, but the actions of a few have now been carried throughout the State and distorted completely out of proportion.

"President McPhee has apologized to Governor Brown and the City of San Luis Obispo. However, if it is necessary to take action against students who take part in demonstrations which become rude and disrespectful of government officials, then these steps will be taken. The publicity that has resulted from all of this has not put Cal Poly in a very favorable light.

"If disciplinary steps, including dismissal from school, need to be taken to prevent other such incidents, then these steps will be taken.

"The college has no choice in the matter of parking about which the students are complaining. The law was adopted by the Legislature and the State College Trustees passed resolutions setting the fees. The Cal Poly administration has no choice but to enforce these regulations as long as they are in existence. It has become apparent that the only way this law can be enforced by the college is by disciplinary action spelled out in the parking regulations distributed at registration.

"Until, and unless, the students realize the importance of obeying laws and regulations, this disciplinary action will continue.

"I sincerely hope that no further action is necessary to correct this problem. However, for the college to condone willful violation of laws and regulations and bad conduct, is certainly not teaching the kind of citizenship values of which Cal Poly can be proud."

Dairyman Accepts Researcher Post

Manuel S. Borges, senior Dairy Husbandry major, has been granted a research assistant's position at the University of Arizona, Tucson.

Borges will receive his Bachelor of Science degree in Dairy Husbandry in June. He and his family will then leave for Tucson, where he will work in dairy physiology research leading to a Master's degree.

Prior to enrolling at Cal Poly Borges operated a commercial dairy in the San Joaquin Valley. He plans to continue in the dairy research field and hopes to obtain a Ph.D. degree.

Recently, Borges was named one of the three outstanding seniors in Cal Poly's dairy department. He is currently serving as an officer in the department's Los Lecheros, dairy club, and is an officer in the Cal Poly chapter of Alpha Zeta.

Congo Missionary Explains Revolts

Methodist missionary, Dean Freudenberger, who is on leave from his work in Republic of the Congo, spoke to Cal Poly students and faculty at College Hour last week on the situation resulting from the Congolese uprising, and the Congo Polytechnic Institute. He is a Cal Poly graduate.

"Central Africa is in an extreme era of revolution at this time," the Congo missionary said. "The people are undergoing terrific change—change from back-of-the-woods paths to roads and from ignorance to education."

"One reason why the Congo fell on its face is lack of trained leaders in the area. Our job is to train the Congolese so that they can teach their own people. Your Cal Poly attitude and philosophy of work is much needed throughout the world."

Relating to the Congo Polytechnic Institute, which is patterned after Cal Poly's "Learn by Doing" system, the Methodist missionary said, "There are no schools of medicine and engineering yet, but there are five schools of agriculture. We have the task of building and staffing these five schools."

"We are looking for people who will join us across the world to enjoy the wealth of creativity, not a wealth to be shared on the basis of superiority or inferiority but on brotherhood."

FROM THE EDITOR'S DESK

A Decision You Must Make

Sometime between today and tomorrow you will participate in the making of an important decision. You will elect your Associated Student Body officers for the coming year.

Vic Dollente, Najib Hamdan and Lee Hodge are running for ASB President; Jim Clark and Edmund Homer, Jr. are in the race for Vice President; and Carol Ann Rizzo is unopposed for Secretary.

While we do not intend to make your decision, after careful consideration of the candidates, their platforms and their qualifications, we recommend that you vote for the following:

For President, Vic Dollente.

For Vice President, Jim Clark.

For Secretary, Carol Rizzo.

The above three candidates have much to offer you in the way of leadership and experience. All of them are completely familiar with student government and have conservative, workable platforms. They have been active throughout their respective college careers.

They know that a good deal of revampment is needed in student government . . . they know that there are areas in the student activity program in which there is virtually no student participation or interest . . . and they realize completely the responsibilities that will be theirs should they be elected.

The officers you elect will be completely responsible for spending more than $100,000 of your money.

The above are our recommendations. You may take them for what they are worth.

Classes to Compete In Physical Fitness

The most physically fit college class will have proof of its status following Cal Poly's first all-class field day on May 30. Sponsored by the Inter-Class Council, it will consist of competition in volleyball, basketball, softball, and track events for men and women members of the four classes.

Joe Zallen, sophomore representative to the council and chairman of the field day event, said the total number of points accumulated by class athletes will determine the winning class. If the event is a success, it will be made an annual event with a perpetual trophy engraved with each winning class, he added.

Field day events are scheduled to begin at 9 a.m. in the Men's Gym and at the campus track.

Sign-up sheets will be posted in residence halls and other convenient locations on campus.

Cal Poly Clips Cal Poly 72-55 In First Meet For 18 Years

Meeting in competition for the first time in 18 years, the Mustang varsity cindersmen were clipped by the Cal Poly Broncos of the Pomona campus 72-55 Saturday. In the frosh competition the San Luis charges took the meet 80-28. Highlight of the meet was a new freshman record in the two-mile by Jerry Justen (SLO), running it in 10:15.6. The Mustangs took only five first places, while the Broncos snared 10.

The first places taken by the Mustangs were in the high jump where Dennis Jones hit his best mark of the season by clearing 4-8 1/2. In the discus, Lloyd Petrolle bettered his CCAA throw. Pierpont Laidley won the 100-yard in 9.9 secs. And winning the mile in 4:38 and the two-mile in 10:14.2 was Don Fields.

Swim Squad Second In CCAA Contest

In this year's CCAA swim championships hosted by L.A. State, Poly mermen were runners-up to champion Long Beach State. This was a reversal from last year, which saw the Mustangs in first place.

Poly's star Jack Adam continued to show the winning form he has had all season. On opening night he broke his own CCAA record in the 1500-meter free style by swimming it in 18:09.6. The previous mark was 18:22.

Frank Brooks also broke his CCAA record in the 200-yard butterfly by winning it in 2:08.8. Jack Furlong won the 100-yard backstroke in 1:10:1.7.

It was Adam who carried the honors for Poly when he won victory number two in the 440-free style in 4:38.8.

Final team scores: Long Beach State, 152 1/2; Cal Poly 85; Fresno State, 67; San Diego State, 50; L.A. State, 33 1/2; UC at Santa Barbara, 19; San Fernando State, 17.

Netmen Show Form; Whip Fresno 6-1

The only way to break a losing streak is to break it big, say the Mustang tennis men. They proved their point Friday by clubbing the Fresno State Bulldogs 6-1. The win stopped coach Jorgensen's squad's losing streak at five, and moved the Mustangs out of the CCAA basement to make room for the winless Bulldogs.

Joe Chau, number four man on the Poly team was missing from the lineup due to an injured hand.

Results: Singles—Batchelder CP def. Hammond FS, 6-0, 9-7; Edwards CP def. Cross FS, 6-3, 6-0; Jacobson CP def. Coester FS, 6-4, 6-4; Healey CP def. McNally FS, 9-7, 6-4; Odgen CP def. Himmonian FS, 8-7, 6-3, 7-5.

Doubles — Batchelder-Edwards CP def. Hammond-Cross FS, 6-3, 6-4; Coester-McNally FS def. Spelbring-Coughlin CP, 6-4, 6-3.

The Poly netters travel to Northridge to oppose the San Fernando Valley Matadors in the next match.

Swatters Win One, Lose Two To LB 49ers

Bill Hicks' baseball squad showed signs of getting on the winning track last weekend when they met the Long Beach State 49ers. In the Friday game the Mustangs thumped the 49ers 11-6. But in the double-header Saturday, the Poly squad were back on the losing end, dropping the opener 10-5 and the second game 12-8.

In the opening game Friday, strong hitting by Jim Harper 2b. and Ken Anderson rf. helped the Mustangs to their 11-6 win. Harper belted a grand-slam homer in the second, and Anderson homered in the fourth.

Ted Tollner notched his second league win of the season, and became the winningest Poly pitcher. Top man at the plate for the Mustangs was Bill Locatelli 1b. with three hits.

Long Beach struck back in the first game of the double-header Saturday, by outhitting the Mustangs. At one point in the game the 49ers led 9-1, before the Poly swatters tallied with four, only to lose 10-5. Losing pitcher was Dick Guerra.

The second game of the double-header brought no relief to the win hungry Mustangs, as the 49ers continued to out hit them at the plate. Only bright spot was a home-run in the fourth by pitcher Bruce Anderson. Final score was 12-8 for the 49ers, with the loss registered to Anderson.

The weekend encounter with Long Beach State left the Mustangs with an overall record of two wins against ten defeats in the CCAA.

TCU — Private Club?

EDITOR:

I have a gripe. There is on our campus a facility which on other college campuses is one of the most enjoyed parts of school life. This is a College Union Building. However, I have found the College Union Building on our campus entrenched with a small clique which seems to find this building their private clubhouse. When someone else enters, there is a feeling that this person has entered a private domain and is not wanted.

One of my experiences was one chilly night recently. I was taking a break from studies and wandered into the TCU. The fire in the fireplace and the work done by the TCU manager were cheery in themselves, but there was a feeling in the air which soon made me feel cold and ill at ease, and so I left. This clique which I refer you to was there at this time.

Soon, the question of financing a new College Union Building for Poly will come before the Board of Trustees. What would their reaction be if they felt that this money was going to be spent for a private club and for such a small number of college students—no money for Poly?

I think that the College Union

Board should, as governing body of the TCU, check into this and provide some means for encouraging students to use the TCU, showing the Board of Trustees that we want such a building for Poly.

I would like to hear the reactions and suggestions of other students on this problem for I have heard complaints from more than one source.

Let's Complain

EDITOR:

In answer to John Spreitz's letter: you assumed that the cafeteria has the best raw materials available. It does not, and it does not buy the best quality of food.

There is a difference between complaining about the food as a means of improving its quality, and complaining for the sake of complaining. Most of the complaints about the food are just for the sake of complaining.

I am afraid that you were rather harsh in your comparison of the cafeteria to a "greasy spoon." I agree that the food is not as good as it could be—I have never said otherwise.

Let us complain, but not just to be complaining. Let us complain to the people who can improve the quality of the food. Let's find out how, and from where the food is bought. If we are really disgusted with the food, let's do something about it.

Journalism Plans Summer Workshop

A journalism workshop for high school students, teachers, and advisers will be held June 25 through 29 at Cal Poly.

A sum of $1,000 has been donated for the workshop by the Newspaper Fund of the Wall Street Journal. Cal Poly is one of the 15 schools to participate in the fund.

The program will deal with several phases of journalism and will emphasize actual practice on a newspaper to be written, edited and printed on campus. A yearbook will be printed and distributed free by the Taylor Yearbook Company.

Special sessions will be held in feature writing, newspaper and yearbook layout, and advertising. Sessions on photojournalism are also scheduled. As a special feature, a panel of West Coast professional journalists will talk on "Careers in Journalism."

All student journalists in senior high schools in California have been invited to make applications. Some tuition scholarships will be offered to high school journalism instructors. Clyde Hostetter, Cal Poly Technical Journalism Department head, announced.

Two Poly Engineers To Study at Harvard

Robert W. Velt and Stanley L. Dryden, seniors in Air Conditioning and Refrigeration Engineering, have been awarded post graduate fellowships in industrial hygiene at Harvard by the Atomic Energy Commission.

The graduate study program is designed to train personnel for work in advanced industrial hygiene to help alleviate a manpower shortage in this field.

Fellowships run for the 1962-63 academic year and lead to a Master of Science degree. Recipients receive a basic stipend of $2,500, a dependents' allowance, limited travel assistance and tuition fees.
